CHAPA-DE INDIAN HEALTH

Grass Valley, CA

Chapa-De Indian Health offers students the opportunity to learn within a mission-driven, patient-centered health system dedicated to providing high-quality, compassionate care for American Indian, Alaska Native, and low-income community members. Students gain hands-on experience across a broad spectrum of services, including primary care, dental, behavioral health, psychiatry, optometry, prenatal care, and pharmacy, within our two community health centers in Auburn and Grass Valley. Through training in our Tribal Federally Qualified Health Centers (Tribal FQHCs), learners see firsthand how integrated, culturally informed care can reduce health disparities and strengthen community wellness. Chapa-De's commitment to expanding services, fostering innovation, and building trust creates an inspiring environment for emerging healthcare professionals dedicated to equity and holistic care.

SIERRA NEVADA MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Grass Valley, CA

The Sierra Nevada Family Medicine Residency Program is dedicated to training well-rounded family physicians in underserved rural communities. The program is based in Grass Valley, California, where medical students will observe how attendings and residents serve underserved rural patients in a tribal federally qualified health center. Clinic sessions deliver culturally competent care in a mix of acute care, preventive health, and chronic disease management. There are a high volume of outpatient procedures and diversity of patients. We have a strong focus on addiction medicine providing medication assisted treatment group medical visits for patients with substance use disorder.
